Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

THE WAR—

Rumblings in the Balkans turned to real war this week as Mussolini sent his troops through the conquered country of Albania to attack Greece. The Greeks put up a stiff resistance holding the Italians in check along most of the mountainous front as reserve men were called to the colors.

Fear for the priceless treasures of the past were allayed when the Italians announced they would not bomb Athens. But air attacks have been made on the airport near that ancient city.

The British came promptly to the aid of the Greeks in accordance with pledges of assistance. The British fleet sought an engagement with Italian warships and sailors were landed quickly upon the island of Corfu and another island just south. Corfu is in a strategic position, lying as it does close to the coast of Albania. Air forces based there can strike the Italians both in Albania and at home, as Corfu is only 70 miles from the Italian "boot". The RAF can cooperate with Greek land forces from this base.

Turkey, after warning the totalitarian powers against any thrust towards the Dardenelles, is carefully watching events in Greece. Although the boasted Turk army of "two million bayonets" is known to be an exaggeration, Turkey has a fine fighting force and will not hesitate to use it. If the rGeeks are itate to use it. If the Greeks are a time it is believed by many military observers that Turkey may send reinforcements to assist them.

It has been reported that the Nazis have put 75,000 crack troops in Albania to assist the Italians. Meanwhile Nazis troop continue to move down the Danube as preparations for a big Near-East offensive appear to be developing.

Stalin has given no outward hint of what action if any Russia will take if the Axis threatens her security by driving into Turkey. Stalin probably knows the real objective of Hitler and Mussolini is the oil in Baku and Iran and a strangle grasp on the eastern Mediterranean. If Stalin concludes Hitler is weakened by the Battle of Britain he will almost surely help Turkey and her allies, but the Red dictator will make reasonable surity of this before risking his big army and air fleet in a clash with the foe he fears so deeply, even though he may lend that foe commercial cooperation.

The British Mediterranean fleet has started to send bombers against Maltezana, nearest Italian air base to Athens. Sir hours after official aid was announced these planes had set fire to ahangar at the Italian airport and done considerable damage to barracks there according to a British report.

The air battle of Britain has been less intense the last few days as weather conditions make flying against England difficult. German flyers who crossed the chanel Tuesday did so through a snowstorm and their planes were kept at high levels. Twenty two Nazis planes were shot down Monday, but losses have been greatly lessened since Goering has withdrawn the heavy slow bombers and replaced them with fighting planes. The latter carry smaller loads of bombs and make more frequent trips when weather conditions permit.

British flyers have continued to attack vital industries in Germany while Berlin is given enough calls to keep the citizens on the uneasy seat. The R A F have been making attacks on industrial cities in northern Italy also the last week.

POLITICS —

The political campaign has moved into the last week and both camps are sending both big and little guns into the oral barrage which is enveloping a large portion of the radio time.

Mr. Roosevelt has thrown to the winds his pretense of speaking on "defense tours" and is campaigning both in person and on the radio His speeches include major addresses given at Philadelphia, New York and Boston and later talks at Cleveland and Brooklyn as well as an election eve broadcast. He will give shorter talks in other cities.

THE LOWEST OPPOSITION

in accordance with judgment, or judge their own acts with sober honesty. It grows out of the studied effort of politicians, who are not Democrats, nor Republicans, but affiliated with that new and officially nameless organization, the New Dealers. An organization which has placed 1,400 newspaper writers on the federal payroll for the obvious purpose of moulding public opinion.

This organization perpetrated the lie that the people were drafting Roosevelt to run for a third term. Through the power of federal funds and bosses like Kelly of Chicago and Flynn of New York it controlled the Chicago convention so hallowed names like Jefferson and Jackson were hissed and life-long honest Democrats like Carter Glass were shouted down. It completed the unsavory picture by nominating a weak, unwanted man named Wallace for vice president against the angry protests of honest Democrats who have served their party with honor for decades.

That is the picture. It is a picture made possible when a political party is given unlimited control over the public purse and uses that power to fashion the opinion of persons who do not think too much for themselves. It is a picture which has a parallel hundreds of years old.

Back in Jerusalem there was a tremendously powerful political organization known as the Great Sanhedrim. It had jurisdiction over religious, civil and criminal matters and was so conceived and constituted that it was claimed to be the most just court ever devised by man. Yet this court became corrupted by the lust for power. It committed a travesty of justice against an innocent person whom the judges feared might threaten their own control of power. And by the power of the Great Sanhedrim public opinion was so swayed and twisted that a man the people had greeted as a leader, became the subject for the scorn of the crowd.

Nineteen hundred years ago Jesus Christ was hissed by the crowd, spat upon and pelted with missiles.

To compare any mortal man with Christ would be odious.

But not far different today from the crowds of 3[illegible] Mob psychology is not far different today than it was nineteen hundred years ago. Nor have the feelings and sensibilities of men changed much with the passing of centuries. Wendell Willkie as he braves the boos of mentally warped men and women and misled children is cut to the quick by the unfriendliness of some of these modern mobs.

Willkie does not have to face these mobs day after day. He could speak only in auditoriums where the crowds would be hand-picked and only supporters could get near to cheer him. But Willkie has chosen the harder way. He believes the cause he is leading is a great crusade which must be fought to save this nation. He is willing to face epithets and missiles so that he may talk to and try to convince the crowds they must halt the advance of centralized power in this nation. He is willing to bravely face all the humiliation he has met because he so deeply loves his country and is willing to serve without restraint.

What will be the answer given by the voters next week to this crusade for preservation of American principles? Will the power of the public purse in political hands control the election? Or will the majority of citizens take heed to the great honest purpose of Willkie to serve his country?

We believe the great majority of honest, self-respecting people in the country have been both disgusted and humiliated that their fellow countrymen in this age have so shamefully treated an earnest fellow American. We do not know for certain that this mob effort to scare him has been directly inspired by the forces which controlled the convention in Chicago in July. But many people will doubtless believe this and the wave of resentment sweeping the country will forcefully influence this election.

American people are not German Nazis, not yet anyway. And they will not be bullied by mob violence.

THE TIME HAS COME

Immediately following the two major political political conventions, we urged voters to keep an open mind to the events that were bound to follow. The emergency seemed to warrant every precaution to the independent mind.

Next Tuesday you are called upon to register a choice. Whatever your determination may be, let's hope together that the coming four years will produce something that approaches the right to live a normal life.

The sound of marching feet resounds in every corner of the United States. It is not an encouraging condition, but each of us is faced with the individual task of keeping the United States in balance. The problem of raising and spending money dwarfs when compared with the other existing difficulties.

> THE freeman, casting with unpurchased hand,
> The vote that shakes the turret of the land.
> —Oliver Wendell Holmes

Of two things we are convinced, namely: If business and industry are cramped by present administration methods, there is no doubt that Wendell Willkie can be made our next President by such powerful influences. If business and industry are content that present conditions do not warrant an active and enthusiastic endorsement of a change, then Franklin Roosevelt will take his third presidential pledge.

The important evidence in this case has been presented. Most minds are now fixed. Next Tuesday you will be asked for a verdict, and when you cast your ballot offer just a little supplication for the long life of these United States.

Only a camparatively few of the boys who are marching off to war practice will recall the parallel of this year with that of 1916. Wilson, without doubt, was re-elected president to "keep us out of war". There was a careless abandon with which the expression "Don't change horses in midstream" was heralded. Many millions of Americans will remember.

Today we stand in much the same position as we did in 1916. Europe is aflame with greed, conceit, hate and war. The United States has acted in much the same manner as we have of late, and there were many convinced that Wilson knew exactly the course to be followed. In the past few weeks some of our Nation's executives have been brave enough to tell the world that we were ready to fight, only because we had outlined a program. The reality is here—boys are being hustled off to prepare for war. Conscription, which we said could never happen again, is grinding its way into millions of American homes and youth is being torn from family ties and enterprise. What more do we need in the way of evidence to prove the fact?

Promises have been made that our boys will never leave the Western Hemisphere! Who dares such promises? Ships are being purchased by the United States to use in transport! Who is so stupid as to turn blind eyes toward all this evidence? Billions of dollars are in the process of being raised for one thing—war machine. But remember this—when the time comes to use that war machine, it will be the youth of the country, and not the high moguls of politics, that will stand with its shoulder to the gun and endure a life of hell.

New York City has 2,000 families [illegible]

BELONGS TO ANOTHER AGE

The depth to which some people have fallen, because of politics, is most regrettable. We speak of the disgusting treatment given Candidate Willkie and Mrs. Willkie.

Never, in our memory, has a resident of these United States stooped so low as to throw tomatoes, eggs, baskets of groceries, etc., in the direction of any man running for so important an office as the Chief Executive of the United States. However, or wherever, inspired, it can reflect in only one direction. It is a direct parallel of that dirty insinuation published and broadcast, attempting to establish Willkie's antecedents, and which will prove the veritable boomerang.

It makes little difference to us under which banner a man is running; it makes no difference what his name may be, or the cause, so long as it is American, that he espouses, he is entitled and deserves the respect of every true, patriotic and intelligent person. And last, but most important, it is conceivable as contemporary propaganda since some of the bunk has been taken out of that Chicago convention and the paid voice that constantly rent the air with "We want Roosevelt".

We are a great believer in luck. The harder we work, the more of it we seem to have.

WATCH YOUR LAWMAKERS

Today the public's attention is largely focused on national politics. But that should not result in a general disinterest in local elections and local government. Local policies which must be made in state capitals are of the utmost and immediate interest to us all.

Next year will be a heavy legislative year—the legislatures of 43 states will meet in regular session. If past precedent is any arbiter, every one of those legislatures will be deluged with proposed laws — good, bad, indifferent and plain crack-pot. And every law proposed would affect in one way or another the well-being of local people.

There is one kind of a law against which the people should be rigorously on guard next year—the kind of law whose ultimate effect is to increase the cost of living artificially. Laws which penalize one kind of merchant on the theory that another will be helped, laws which legalize price-fixing, and laws which levy special or class taxes, fall into this category. Many of the states have such laws on their books now. Efforts should be made to repeal rather than increase such price-boosting and job-killing legislation.

When your legislature convenes, scrutinize every law. Make your wishes known. Only if that is done, can the people protect themselves against ruinous legislation.

THIRD TERMITES AT WORK

Mayor Sisto is to be commended for having the lights put on the temporary bridge. It was the darkest spot in town and most dangerous for people, especially when lights of approaching cars blinded pedestrians so they knew not where they were walking.

This came in the mail. One father is calling his child "Weatherstrip" because it kept him out of the draft.

Addison will again welcome the Steuben County Pomona Grange Wednesday and Thursday of next week. This ever growing organization is probably the most powerful farm organization in the country and does more to promote farmer interest than any organization Addison welcomes them and commends the local Grangers for being able to bring them here for the annual two day election meeting.

I am much interested in the You Farmers Organization, sponsored by the high school for those young farmers who have graduated from school and are now putting to practical use the things they learned in school. This is adult education and I'm glad to see so many young men interested in the program.

The defense program is beginning to strike home. I understand that construction on the new Main street bridge is going to be held up several days, or even weeks by lack of steel. The mills cannot provide the structural steel owing to the metal being needed for the defense plans of the Federal government.

The football experts sort of got crossed up in their calculations last week by several upsets in the big time football arena. It is getting tougher and tougher to predict the scores each week as big teams fall.

VOICES AND VOTES —

Mr. Willkie spoke the other night from a railroad car at Wilkes-Barre, and it sounded as if he were losing his voice but winning the election. Maybe by time election comes around his voice will be gone, but he won't need to say anything more. After all, the New Deal record is nothing to speak of; and the country is waking up to the realization that it had better begin asserting itself or forever lose the chance to protest against the political wedding of Mr. Roosevelt and American Independence.

In contrast, the incumbent President's perfect radio voice may never have functioned more smoothly or agreeably. It is the voice of radio experience over eight years—casually confident, superbly modulated, expertly timed to audience receptivity. Insofar as vocal expression is to be relied upon, the voice may still leave nothing to be desired. But somehow, the sympathetic vibration it used to set up in popular emotion no longer furnishes the desired accompaniment. The people have become too charmed for words—and more words. The reaction is one of settle disillusionment and apathy.

Conceivably, the thunderous eight year record of New Deal blundering and platform-wrecking furnishes an overwhelming undertone to the register of the perfect radio voice. The appeal of government by radio insistence, however accepted it may be in certain foreign lands, may here ring out like a bell—but there is an unpleasant connotation of a Liberty Bell with an omnious crack in it. Thus the voice has become more of a goat-getter than a vote-geter.

Mr. Willkie's voice may be on the way out—like Mr. Roosevelt himself—but the voice of the American people has taken its cue from an earnest, sincere, truthful man and is growing more and more articulate! the voice traditionally insisting that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

EXPERT EVASION

While President Roosevelt in New York last night was making an impassioned defense of his armament program, Wendell L. Willkie at Louisville was pounding relentlessly on the issue of the third term which the President thus far has managed completely to ignore. The President had something to say in the course of his address about the "trapeze performance" of the Republicans in swinging lightly from side to side. Considering his own gyrations in seven years of expert somersaulting, this was a strange charge.

It is no answer to the accumulated criticisms of his administration for the President to point to the war in Europe and the importance of the preparedness program. The importance of that program is conceded. The country is united on defense, it has been united since the meaning of modern mechanized war in Europe came home to it last spring. But the charges brought by Mr. Willkie and the Republican party against the Roosevelt leadership, not only in this crisis, but in the long record since 1933, go much too deep to be answered by emotional appeals of patriotism.

The President was warranted of course, in many of his charges against those who have opposed adequate armaments in the past. There was unquestionably short-sightedness on both sides. But it is to be noted that most of the instances he cited of opposition to his armament proposals occurred before the outbreak of the war in Europe. They do not explain the fact that for some time after the outbreak o fthe war the President made no move to rouse the country to the importance of increased mechanical equipment for our defenses. This warning did not come until May, and then it came in such an alarmist guise as largely to defeat its own purpose.

But all that is now past history. Rearmament will not be achieved by hurling recriminations at others; it will come only through wise, balanced leadership now. And the gist of the criticism of President Roosevelt is that temperamentally he is not equipped for such balanced leadership, that his impetuosity is more likely to endanger our peace than it is to make us impregnable against attack.

After the President had said all he had to say last night, it was still no answer to Mr. Willkie's charge at Louisville that a third term for any president means a plunge toward dictatorship against which many of our wisest statesmen have warned. The tradition against the third term, as Mr. Willkie said, is a part of the unwritten common law of our land. Its violation would mean that "our democratic system is in distress and jeopardy". The President has not answered that charge. It is unanswerable.

A steak-meter is now available which tells the exact time needed for broiling a rare, medium or well-done steak. First, the thickness of the steak is measured and then a metal gadget indicates the time needed and the distance the steak should be placed from the flame.

TAX FAX

Of New York State

L. Richard Guylay

A reduction of only 10 per cent in New York's state and local expenditures would provide funds enough for the construction of twenty up-to-date submarines for coastal defense—and there'd still be enough left over to pay the crew's wages for years to come.

Add another reason taxes go up: One New York State city hired an expert to teach swimming in a pool that had no water in it for three years.

The money spent for interest on bonded indebtedness by the counties, cities, and villages of New York State each year would provide a $1,000 college scholarship for every student graduating from high school in New York State and still leave enough to build one of the finest universities in the world.

Every day and every night, 365 days a year, state and local governments in the United States are spending more than a million dollars an hour, according to the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey.

Although Miami, Florida, increased 54 per cent in population between 1930 and 1940 to lead all American cities in growth, it had nothing on the army of state employes which increased 82 per cent in that decade according to the Census Bureau.

Every day New York State and its local subdivisions require almost $3,500,000 for operating expenses — a sum equal to the daily wages of approximately 700,000 persons earning $1,600 a year.

NO FIFTH TERM FOR HARDENBROOK VOTE FOR CRAWFORD

GEORGE A. KING

AN OPEN LETTER

Voters of Steuben:

More than four years ago I expressed to you my desire to be your district attorney and by one of the largest majorities given a candidate in that election you favored me with the office to which I aspired.

When I completed that term I requested re-election and you again granted my wish with an increased majority.

For the consideration you have given me, for your co-operation and unfailing support of my work as District Attorney I wish to express my deep and lasting appreciation.

On the last day of this year Steuben County's veteran judge will retire by reason of having reached the age limit. The Republican Party has given me its endorsement as a candidate for that high office and I ask your support on Election Day, November 5, assuring you that if elected I shall do my utmost to serve you faithfully, efficiently and to maintain the high standard of that office.

My record as an attorney in private practice, as your District Attorney and as a resident of Steuben County since I concluded my service to our country at the end of the World War is an open book. On that record I ask your vote next Tuesday.

Sincerely yours,

GEORGE A. KING.

The Gigantic Numbers Game

"Your number's up," and "what's your number", are phrases heard since Tuesday noon wherever two or more men gather.

As the tedious task of drawing numbers in the great national defense lottery ground on, hundreds of radios in Corning were surrounded by groups of the 3,676 registrants in the Corning draft district, their friends and families.

Cornings No. 158 is Arthur Joseph Wagner, 22-year-old employee of the New York Central, while No. 192 the second number to affect the local registrants is Jarius William Peterson and No. 105 calls Eric Martin Olson.

As this is written, the draft drawing has passed the halfway mark, and complete lists of the order in which serial numbers are drawn will appear in daily papers, which are being grabbed up as fast as they appear on the news stands.

WASHINGTON — Low numbers were the rule for No. 1 honors in the first drawings in the three World War draft lotteries.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker pulled No. 258 first in the drawing on July 20, 1917.

No. 246 was the first number drawn in the second lottery, held the following year.

No. 322 was drawn by President Wilson in the third lotte

From Buffalo comes the sto[illegible] two brothers who registered in ferent parts of Erie Coun[illegible] drew the same selective service number, 951. In Corning, two member's of the daily paper's staff both residing at the same street address, had their numbers come up in the first forty drawn from the goldfish bowl in Washington.

King Says New Dealers Hate Newspapers For Recalling and For Repeating Their Words

GREENWOOD, Oct. 30 — District Attorney George A. King in addressing a Republican rally here told why President Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes, Campaign Manager Flynn and others connected with the national Democratic administration so frequently and bitterly denounce the newspapers. His subject was, "By Their Works Ye Shall Know Them" and he demonstrated that the New Dealers hate the press because it so often reprints statements made by them in the past that do not conform to their present statements.

He said that on July 30, 1932, President Roosevelt in an Albany address made this declaration: "Let us have the courage to stop borrowing to meet deficits. Any government like any family can spend a little more than it makes for a year or so but a continuation of that habit means the poorhouse". Mr. King remarked that according to this statement of the President the nation is headed for the poorhouse, or, in other words, bankruptcy.

Then he quoted the President's address in Sioux City, Iowa, on September 29, 1932, part of which follows: "I accuse the Hoover administration of being the greatest spending administration in peace times in all history and ask that you assign me to the task of reducing the operating expense of your national government."

The people took Roosevelt at his word, said Mr. King ,and as a result he has repudiated the pledge he made to get votes; he has spent more than 60 billions of the taxpayers' money and DOUBLED the national debt. His word is not to be believed. The nation's only hope to escape financial disaster is to elect Wendell Willkie.

Glass Block Use Gains

One of the most revolutionary changes in the modern house is the use of walls and panels of insulux glass blocks, which were commercially produced for the first time only five years ago.

Today, they are used in every style home; in every type of room, to provide cool, well-diffused light, to obscure undesirable views, and to minimize cleaning, for glass blocks can be cleaned simply by wiping them with a damp cloth.

Because they may take the place of solid wall, glass blocks are making home interiors lighter, more cheerful than they have ever been. Because they also insulate against heat and cold, large areas of them may be used without taxing the present heating plant, or creating cold, drafty interiors.

Former A & P Engineer Visits in Addison

Edward B. Bryant, Sr., 77,, of Boston, Mass., was in Addison Saturday looking for some of his old "cronies"! He was a former resident of Addison and vicinity and was one of the first two engineers hired to operate the old Addison and Northern Pennsylvania Railroad. Mr. Bryant did not know that Charlie Cook was dead and drove here from Syracuse to talk over old times on that once famous railroad line which was such an important connecting link between northern Pennsylvania and southern New York.

Mr. Bryant is now living in Boston, with relatives. He left here to go to Utica railroading on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and rose to become superintendent of yards there. His wife died about a year ago and he has been traveling since that time.

WENDELL L.
WILLKIE
The Story of A Country Boy Who Made Good and Why THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION Nominated him for PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.
The Story begins in Elwood, Indiana, February, 18, 1892
1 Two Elwood neighbors were passing Herman Willkie's home. One of them said, "Herm's got a new kid. He sure has got a husky pair of lungs. Should be able to make himself heard later on,—eh?"
2 This youngster grew into a healthy rough and tumble boy,—inventor and leader in pranks. He never sought trouble, but if trouble overtook him he did not let it bluff him
3 As river of a delivery wagon your Willkie learned how to hitch up horses and about horse power while he stood him in good stead when he began putting thousand of horse power together
4 Period of Growing Pains
Helped rebuild houses
Husked corn in Iowa
Worked as short-order cook
Harvest hand in wheat belt
Worked in Texas Oil Fields
And always a student
Tough jobs, but they made a man of the youngster who was not afraid to tackle them
5 Young Willkie became teacher of history at the Coffeyville, Kansas High School. He also excelled in athletics
In what year was the Dalton Gang's raid? Who was the greatest base ball pitcher? Who discovered Africa?
IMPORTANT COFFEYVILLE HISTORY
7 After his return from France Wendell Willkie hardly waited to get out of his uniform before he was after a job, for he had married Miss Edith Wilk. He landed a job as attorney for Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.
8 His remarkable success in winning cases brought him a call from New York to head Commonwealth and Southern. His changes and innovations and his spectacular success which followed, amated the industry
9 Instead of dismissing employees to meet diminishing returns, he hired more people to sell more electrical equipment, which would use more power, reduce the rates and in turn, create more jobs and, incidentally make some profits. It was as simple as that,—and it worked!
10 The first attempt to "stop Willkie" was when the New Deal High Command sent their toughest terror, Attorney General Robert Jackson, to take him apart at a Town Hall debate in New York. But Bob was the one flattened out and likewise was his presidential balloon

WILLKIE PLAN
11 Willkie awoke next morning to find himself being looked over to head the biggest business in the world, the U.S.A.
12 It was the New Deal Administration that made Willkie. When they ganged up on him and at the point of a gun, attempted to take his company which belonged to his thousands of stockholders, he fought,—and won! The Country learned about the man; his courage, ability and accomplishments. John Q. Public jumped to his feet—shouted, "here is our man. Lets go and get him!"

Young Farmers Of Vicinity Warned of Credit

The Young Farmers out-of-school group held their first meeting of the new year Monday night in the agricultural room of the Addison High School. Joseph Coleman of Goodhue Hill presided. Election of officers for the coming year was held. James Mather of Hedgesville was elected president and Paul Kane of Erwins was chosen vice president.

The club voted to hold monthly meetings for the fall and spring months and bi-monthly meetings the rest of the year. It was also voted to have refreshments at each meeting. Carl Johnson of Hedgesville and Charles Brennan of Borden were selected as food committee for the next meeting.

The instructional part of the meeting was in charge of Frank Hanafy, teacher of agriculture. He spoke on "Saving and acquiring useful commodities." It was brought out that most boys while in high school, especially those taking agriculture, acquire a reasonable net worth, but for the few years following graduation, there is a let down in this procedure. The speaker told of a farmer in a nearby county who offered to share-rent his farm to some young man of the community providing they possessed a reasonable equity. The ages of themen interviewed ranged from 19 to 29. Most of them were farm reared, but at the time of the interview, the only valuables acquired by these were, a shot gun, and a hunting dog, a model A car and a few other trinkets.

The necessity for maintaining a good credit standing in the community was also stressed. By illustration it was shown how essential it was for the young farmer to pay a little on the principal of the mortgage each year, thus reducing both principal and interest gradually over a period of time.

There were sixteen members present.

"Does any fool out of the dark midlands of the European continent believe that British parliamentary government would die with the blasting of the tall towers on the Thames? Perhaps the new barbarians do not know; but these things are fashioned of flesh and blood, not of stone. And this is what puzzles the barbarians: the stone cannot renew itself, but the flesh and blood will."

ducts which are sold at less than the price paid for live weight steers. There is refrigeration expense, taxes, railroad transportation. Then when it gets to the retailer, the demand for individual cuts determine price. Inexpensive cuts are not sold in summer as it takes too long to cook and few want to stay in the kitchen all day. So steaks are sold, the demand creates a shortage and up goes the price. Employment is up 14 per cent which means more men will have more money to buy more meat.

History

"Meat packing as an industry started about 1655 when William Pincheon in Massachusetts devoted full time to smoking and salting meats. This method prevailed until after Civil War. The problem was getting western meat to eastern markets. Cattle were driven over the Allegany Mountains to markets. Limited ice refrigeration came after the Civil War and in 1880 many meat packers had ice houses five times larger than their packing plants.

"The perfection of the refrigerator car from meat packers. Even today there are some communities where fresh meat is a rarity and signs are hung out two days before arrival of fresh meat, "Fresh meat expected Thursday."

"There are standards in meat. You may wonder why one butcher charges 60 cents for sirloin and another 29. This is caused by the way meat is trimmed. Bone and fat in the lesser cut may make the cost of actual meat reecvied about the same.

Government Inspection

"When government inspection came into being the packers frankly, did not like it, but now they will battle anyone who tries to take it away. Government inspection standardized grades. It has done something else for packer and consumer. Some packers were not above board and it made them conform to standards. Make no mistake about it, there are no politics in meat inspection. Inspectors are in each department in the plant. They are paid by the government, not by us. We have nothing to say about them."

Mr. Hayward then pointed out many approved medical products which are the result of research in laboratories of the meat packers mentioning specifically adrenalin, pepsin, liver, hog thyroid and insulin.

In answer to several questions he brought out many interesting facts for the audience. Among the things Mr. Hayward mentioned were: meat used to be hung several days in some places to make it tender, all products, formulas and the like used by packers have to be approved by the Bureau of Animal Industry in Washington, meat inspection came after the Spanish-American War, the Federal government permits only one and one-half per cent cereal in meats. This does not cheapen the product but is put in to increase the edibility. Coloring is provided by vegetables such as carrots. Coloring of foods was brought about by housewives who would not purchase the uncolored product. Meat rejected in packing houses goes into inedible oils and greases.

Mr. Hayward closed by stating the United States Government Bureau of Standards tested 12 different brands of shortening for digestibility and found them 93.8 and 12 brands of lard purchased on the open market and found them 98 per cent. This is the packers' answer to an advertisement of a shortening company on digestibility for the test was a government test.

Dr. Stiker then presented Mr. Hyland who told a few stories on the Doctor and then using a loud speaker, imitated cows, calves, bulls chickens, an Erie engine starting and stopping and crossing a open switch, the pitter-patter of the milk man's horse, a game of ping pong with the ball being lost, a pair of rusty hinges and then gave impersonations of Amos 'N' Andy and Lightening. The hermit, Ezra P. Watters, Bob Burns and closed with Lizzie Lish and her recipes. He was heartily applauded for his clever methods of presentation and the humor of his topics for his impersonations.

The Lowest Opposition

During this campaign we have witnessed the lowest form of opposition ever set against a presidential candidate in the history of the American nation. Never before has any man who earned and deserved the confidence of enough of his fellow citizens to gain a nomination for Prsident of the United States ever been made the target for tomatoes, stones and eggs. Never before has a nominee for this high office ever been visited with the humiliation of seeing his wife spattered with the spray of an egg of doubtful freshness.

The strange paradox of this situation lays in the fact that Wendell Willkie was not put into the race by the so-called high-brow political leaders of the Republican party. He was pushed into the nomination by the demand of Americans in every walk of life who forced the professional politicians to accept him. He was unquestionably the people's choice in the most unbossed convention in the history of American politics.

Why, oh why have we seen fellow countrymen hurling vegetables at a man who worked his way up from humble origin to earn the nomination for the highest office in the land? What has come over the American people that unfriendly crowds can shout derision, throw epithets and missiles at one whose only offense can be that he was projected into campaign by the insistent demand of admiring fellow countrymen?

The reason certainly lies deep beneath the surface. It is hidden in a welter of events that have so confused and biased many persons they are totally unable to act

OUR COUNTRY — Post-election Unity

Reprinted from "Our National Affairs" Column by Raymond Clapper

The finest thing that has been said in this campaign so far as I know was the other night by Alf M. Landon.

It was this: "First, I want to say to the dictators who are offering us alternate threats and bribes, that they are making a very grave error if they mistake the rivalry of a political campaign for disunity in the United States.

"We Americans do not conduct our political affairs with that attitude. As soon as the election is over, Democrats as well as Republicans will rally in the nation's interests to the support of the President of the United States. This vital and dominant attitude in American political life will not be changed by the bitterness of this campaign.

I take these words seriously because Landon by his own example after his defeat in 1936 has already lived them. Time and again he upheld the Administration in questions involving foreign affairs. He threw his not inconsiderable weight toward killing the Ludlow amendment for a referendum on war when Republicans were trying to make it a demagogic issue. He went to the Lima conference as a member of the American delegation and by his presence helped to impress upon Latin-America the reality of our underlying unity.

It may be hoped that others will make the same pledge that Landon has made. That does not require blind support of every proposal or every action. Indeed, Landon has been a severe critic of this Administration. But when unity was important he contributed his share.

It will be important this time, more so than in any period we have seen. This campaign is ending in a bitter struggle which is being fought through until the last voting place closes on Election Night. The air is full of suspicion, of anxiety and of wondering doubts. The third-term question has added to this state of mind and it is rapidly becoming the dominant question. One hears it mentioned increasingly, though a few weeks ago it seemed scarcely to figure in the campaign.

DEMOCRATS ENDORSE HARDENBROOK

E. Ray Hardenbrook

Monday, October 21st, the Steuben County Board of Supervisors passed a resolution which said in part:

"RESOLVED: That this Board of Supervisors go on record as commending the condition of the buildings and the food being furnished at the County Home, and the care that is being given the inmates."

Every member of the Board had an opportunity to vote "No", but the resolution was adopted UNANIMOUSLY. This Board includes Democrat members, one of whom is seeking election as Welfare Commissioner. His approval of this resolution constitutes his approval of Mr. Hardenbrook's management of the County Home.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE GRANTS

Criticism has been expressed in some localities of the amounts paid in Old Age Assistance grants by those who do not know that: Old Age Assistance is public relief, and not a pension, and the amount of the grants are based on public relief BUDGETS, PROVIDED AND AUDITED BY THE STATE AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. The County Commissioners of Public Welfare do not make the laws but are required to comply with them.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION APPROVED

Resolution adopted by the Steuben County Board of Supervisors, Monday, October 21st, introduced by Supervisor Allen and duly seconded. "This Board wishes to commend Mr. Hardenbrook on the fine way in which he has handled public relief in this county and his efficient and economical administration."

Mr. Hardenbrook's opponent was present and did not oppose this resolution, WHICH WAS PASSED UNANIMOUSLY, this constituting his endorsement of Mr. Hardenbrook's administration.

ON MONDAY, October 21st, Mr. Hardenbrook appeared before the Supervisors and asked if any member of the the Board could suggest any way in which the operating costs of the County Department of Public Welfare could be reduced without impairing efficiency. Members were unable to offer such suggestion, and this included the Democratic candidate for Commissioner of Public Welfare, who has repeatedly advertised that the administration costs should be the lowest in the State instead of THE SECOND LOWEST AS THEY ARE AT THE PRESENT.

SOME INDIVIDUALS who apparently know nothing about Steuben County's political affairs have advertised, "No Fifth Term for Hardenbrook". Mr. Hardenbrook is not seeking a fifth term; he is serving his third term.

E. RAY HARDENBROOK,
Republican Candidate for Commissioner of Public Welfare

Republican Standard Bearers

WENDELL WILLKIE

CHARLES N. McNARY

JOHN L. LEWIS—American!

Last Friday night millions listened to a most dramatic presentation of campaign facts when John L. Lewis broadcast to the Nation.

Regardless of party, creed or sex, his integrity of mind, his sincerity of soul, his oneness of purpose must have appealed to all.

As might have been expected of such a dynamic and aggressive personality, Lewis took the "prize dive" of the entire campaign to date. He not only declared himself definitely for the Republican nominee, but he went all the way by announcing he would retire as head of the CIO if the New Deal is returned to power.

When Lewis goes into a movement, he goes in head over heels, and in all of his stormy career he never got in any deeper than at this moment by serving notice on his subaltern leaders of CIO that his resignation is in their hands—if Roosevelt wins.

Lewis must be applauded for a fine display of unselfish patriotism and discerning logic. Listening to his measured words, no one should doubt that the shaggy warrior was sincerely convinced that the re-election of Roosevelt for a third term would be a national disaster. What listener could doubt the honesty of Lewis' conviction that the election of Willkie is an urgent necessity?

That this forthright and bold performance of a great American leader of labor will have a tremendous influence cannot be denied—it may, in fact, win for Willkie!

Vacationists visiting Dunkirk, N. Y., are given a souvenir kit by the Chamber of Commerce. This is an attractive folder, with map, and inside are found a pen, pencil, postcards, stationery and envelopes, blotter, Dunkirk vacation stamps, folder matches, bottle opener, Fishermen's rule, directory of churches and merchants, a county club folder and a personal welcome from the mayor.

Third-term indispensibility — if nothing to bank on—is something to bunk on.

Mr. Willkie continues his strenuous campaign which has carried him to every corner of the nation except the solid south. Unable to get the President to debate issues with him Willkie now makes it a rule to answer every Roosevelt speech within 24 to 48 hours. He will return east today from a swing through the border states and talk in New Jersey and New York, winding up the campaign at eleven o'clock election eve.

More and more the third term issue has come to the front as the campaign reaches intensity at the finish. Scores of former Democrats who were leaders in their party have started speaking for Willkie and all declare their wish to stop the third term attempt. New Dealers on their part have roped in some former Republican progressives to endorse Roosevelt. Among the Willkie Democrats campaigning are Al Smith, Bainbridge Colby, Prof. Moley, Gen. Johnson, Hanes, and Irwin Cobb.

Biggest single controversy of the campaign has been the announcement by John L. Lewis of his support for Willkie. Lewis denounced Roosevelt in a speech last week and decreed the third term effort as a move to dictatorship. He called on his labor following to either endorse his stand or repudiate him personally. The move has divided the labor camp which four years ago stood solidly for Roosevelt.

Joe Louis heavyweight champ and Gene Tunney, former title holders are speaking for Willkie's election. Dempsey, another former champ is supporting Roosevelt.

Mr. and Mrs.
VOTER:

Exercise your right to vote Tuesday; Kill the threatened move towards dictatorship by voting down the THIRD TERM.

This is the most important election YOU have ever voted in. America is threatened with wars and foreign entanglements while the country has been brought to the door of bankruptcy by the spendthrift New Deal. The Third Term Candidate while trying to assure the nation he is not fomenting war, is at the same time pushing us towards the brink of another world conflict.

If he were not planning to send our newly drafted boys across the seas why would the government be buying up troop ships?

A NON-PARTIZAN APPEAL TO VOTERS

VOTE FOR CANDIELLO FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Democratic Ticket

I am a graduate of the University of Buffalo; I am a member of the City, County and State Bar Associations; have practiced law for 14 years in all State and Federal District Courts, mainly in Steuben County and Children's Court; am familiar with the human elements involved in children's cases and I desire to continue the good work of Judge Brown in that Court.

Concerning my opponent, for whom I have the highest respect, I feel like the majority of the taxpayers and members of the bar do, he should be kept in the office of the district attorney. He is particularly fitted for that office; there are many criminal cases pending to be tried with which he is familiar. It would be unwise to vote him out of that office at this time.

Your vote will be considered a vote of confidence.

VEDO M. CANDIELLO

Ohio State's Strength Was Contributing Factor in Great Cornell Victory Last Saturday

The writer, one of 34,500 fans who saw the Cornell Red team beat Ohio State Saturday, is ready to call Coach Schmitt's howl one of the poorest exhibitions of sportsmanship ever expressed in big time football. Snavely did not need to coach from the bench and to say he was running the team against Ohio State is to discredit the eyesight of all the fans present. And it is doing a low injustice to Walt Matuszczak one of the best quarterbacks in the game today. Some writers have wondered if the squawk was not aimed to give Don Scott of Ohio State the nod for All American over Walt.

As for the game, it was apparently a toss-up for one quarter, but after that Cornell justified the national ranking now enjoyed by the Big Red. Ohio State has a fine, strong, well-drilled eleven, but it was faced with one with better scoring weapons Saturday, and scores are what win. The Ohio State touchdown and conversion after a consistent 90 yard march left many spectators breathless, but Cornell was only feeling out the opposition and all who remembered the game a year ago sat back to wait for Snavely's men to do their stuff.

Cornell boasts no Tom Harmon or Red Grange to run a one-man-show—teams coming up with such stars are more or less accidents and they shine when the star shines and fade when he fades, or is bottled up. The reason the Big Red shines every Saturday is due to good material superbly drilled—eleven men ready to block out opposition players the second a break comes in the game. Remarkable runs are made to look like easy jaunts when those blockers blast the way for a ball carrier, as witness the time McCullough stole a buck pass.

From the writers position in row 67 next to the boxes this was one of the most beautiful plays of the game—blockers arose like magic to screen of fthe runner and convoy him to within a few yards of the Ohio goal. One would almost swear they popped out of the ground to protect the runner.

One could ramble on for weeks, trying to describe this game to someone not present is like trying to describe the World's Fair—drama and action for a lifetime were packed in 60 dynamic minutes.

For the Ohio coach to try to take away something from Cornell's victory by charges of signalling from the bench is like discrediting an opera in which a singer has played a minor though important part. For Cornell could not have put on its magnificent show if it had not been faced by one of the strongest, most resourceful teams in the land. There is credit enough for both elevens.

Notre Dame also continued its unbroken way and remained in the undefeated column. Illinois proved an easy opposition for the South Benders Saturday to the tune of 26 to 0.

SPORTS GOSSIP

Cornell remains supreme as Ohio State players and boosters found out Saturday. The Snavely razzle-dazzle proved too much for the western invaders who came east and were trounced 21 to 7. Cornell should coast through the rest of the season against Columbia, Yale, Dartmouts and Pennsylvania.

—o—

Syracuse went back into the winning column on an old fashioned football play in a field goal against Columbia.

—o—

Bucky Harris is still in the mid-west talking terms to manage a team there. If he leaves the Washington Senators it will be a strange place for awhile, as he has been a fixture there for many years.

—o—

Tom Harmon remains the outstanding football player of this season and easily outplayed Francis Reagan, the Pennsylvania flash Saturday as Pennsylvania invaded Michigan but returned to the Quaker State on the short end of the score board, 14 to 0.

—o—

With the closing of the World's Fair of 1940 in New York Sunday night, many prominent athletes will be open to job suggestions, especially the swimmers in the Aquacade.

—o—

Gene W. Rye, center fielder for a Texas team batted three home runs in one inning as his team scored 18 runs in that inning.

—o—

The highest amount ever paid a jockey for a single race was $20,000 given George Ellis for winning the $100,000 Agua Caliente handicap in 1930.

—o—

Over 700,000 paid $3.30 each to see 25 of the major football games last Saturday.

—o—

Upsets continue in the big time football field and some of the favorites fall to smaller and less favored teams. Texas Christian fell to Tulsa Saturday and among other casualties were: Brown's victory over Holy Cross, Wesleyan over Amherst, Penn State over Temple, St. Mary's ver Fordham, Princeton over Rutgers, Rice over Texas, Auburn over Georgia Tech and many others.

—o—

The Steuben County Baseball League annual banquet was held in Addison Saturday night. The boys ate a lot of American House turkey and listened to a lot of speeches. However, they came away with the idea of making the league bigger and better next year. Ed Winnie is president of the league and is doing a good job. There are ten teams in the league. Great credit is due Bob Drake for his part in keeping the league operating. He is secretary.

PAINT SUGGESTIONS —

Painters suggest:

After a rain, at least four dry days should pass before painting wood, brick, stucco, and other absorbent materials with an oil paint.

There should be no painting in a misty and damp atmosphere or before dampness has passed away.

Painting should not start in the morning until the sun has dried up the dampness of night.

Hot food should be cooled before it is stored in the refrigerator.

Knights Down Knoxville 12-0 In Last Game

Addison Knights defeated Knoxville in the last game of the season last Friday afternoon at Knoxville, winning 12 to 0. The game went beyond the halfway mark before a score was made. The passing combination of Dominick to Hargrave set up the play. Andy Dominick pitched a 25 yard pass into the arms of Hargrave out in the open and the latter ran 20 yards over the goal line.

The second touchdown for Addison was made in the last quarter. Knoxville was knocking on the Addison goal at the five yard line. Gee intercepted a Knoxville pass on the 10 yard line and ran to the Knoxville ten yard line, or 80 yards before being run down. He was given excellent interference by Hargrave. Two plays carried the ball over.

Saturday afternoon the members of the squad have been invited to Mansfield to see the Mansfield Stroudsburg State Teacher Colleges in their traditional game. Cars will leave Addison at noon.

Willkie Train And Caravan Attract Here

The name of Wendell L. Willkie, candidate for president, was spoken freely here over the past week-end owing to two events. The first was the appearance of the Willkie Caravan, a sound truck here late Thursday afternoon and the second was the Willkie special train going thru Addison about 1:45 Friday afternoon.

The caravan arrived here at 5 o'clock, on schedule Thursday night in charge of Don Sanders, president of the New York Press Association. Accompanying the caravan were Assemblywoman Mrs Edith Cheney, Surrogate Judge George Pratt, Assemblyman William Stuart of Canisteo, Attorney Dominick Gabriello of Bath, president of the Young Republican Club, and County Welfare Commissioner E. Ray Hardenbrook. Each spoke for a short time on various phases of the national, state and local campaigns. Attorney Charles L. Crane of Addison was the first speaker and he asked for the election of the entire Republican ticket for the preservation of Democracy and American ideals. There were about 125 at the rally which was held on Valerio Parkway.

About 100 turned out to see the Willkie special nine-car train go east bound toward Elmira. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Willkie were visible to the local audience as the train sped through Addison. One spectator said he was in the third car from the rear. Others identified Clarence Brisco of Corning.

Township Chairmen Organize for Annual Membership Drive

Chairmen of the Farm Bureau township committees met at Bath Monday evening to plan what is predicted to be the most successful membership canvass in the history of the local organization.

Every township was represented in the meeting which decided that the membership canvass should be conducted in early November.

James A. Young, prominent livestock breeder of Allegany county, lauded the Farm Bureau program and urged the Steuben County committeemen to enroll the largest possible membership for 1941.

Chairman Cites Gain

Pointing to the fact that Steuben county in the current year enrolled 1313 members as compared to 1192 last year, and stating that the Farm Bureau in the current season has offered the best program in its history, A. E. Scudder predicts a complete success for the coming canvass.

Membership in the Farm Bureau, the board chairman stated, has more than doubled in the past seven years when there was an enrollment of 641.

Ranking township is Bath with 112 members, Cohocton a close second with 111, and Wayland occupies third position with 94.

Other towns with large enrollments are prattsburg with 69 members, Avoca 67. Woodhull and Fremont tie with 55; Howard has 54; Hornell 53; Canisteo 52.

The membership is canvassed by 178 community committeemen, who will meet at regional rallies in early November to organize the canvass for their districts.

Short Session School Board Approves Bills

tional Youth Administration quota for Addison is $92 monthly and 16 young men are now being engaged. President Miller asked Dr. Auringer of the Insurance Committee to see that the young people are taken care of in the compensation insurance of the board.

Mr. Knebel asked permission to use the commercial-room for a Boy Scout discussion group for adults on November 13. The permission was granted. Trustee Baxter will investigate the filling of the cracks in Valerio Parkway with tar to prevent water freezing and damaging the parkway.

Parkway Draining

There was some discussion of draining the Colwell-Valerio Parkway section. The recent filling there takes care of much of the water which formerly gathered there but there is still need of draining the intersection. A storm sewer will be needed there and this is beyond the jurisdiction of the board the members feel.

Members of the board objected to the use of school property as a storage place for farm machinery and the clerk was instructed to write a letter to the merchant who has been using the school grounds asking his cooperation in keeping the ground clear of incumberances.

Button Collectors Have Field-Day

Recent political happenings in this country and things having political implications have given the slogan writers a wonderful opportunity to let their imaginations run riot.

Charles Phillips of Orange, N. J., a cousin of Miss Carolyn West, is in the button manufacturing business and last week she received several buttons relative to the present political campaign. Some of them are the ordinary inch size buttons and others are four-inch disks on which the imaginations of the slogan writers found fertile field.

Among the slogans were: "Papa, I want to be a captain too", "MY FRIENDS, goodbye", "If I were 21 I'd vote for Willkie", "We don't want Eleanor either", "This is America" and many others.

Miss West kindly loaned the collection to the Advertiser-Sentinel for display in the window. The buttons were put on display the day the Willkie train went through Addison and attracted a great deal of attention. Some of the Main street merchants sought to purchase them.
